CHARTER

Preamble

Whereas the United Nations General Assembly has declared 2005-2014 as the UN Decade of Education for Sustainable Development (DESD) based on the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation, and following the resolution and the 2002 World Summit on Sustainable Development (WSSD), the United Nations University, through the Institute of Advanced Studies (UNU-IAS), launched the Programme on Education for Sustainable Development (EfSD Programme);

Whereas the major components of the EfSD Programme are advocacy and dissemination of Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) and DESD principles, promotion of regional or local approaches through regional centres of expertise on ESD, strengthening ESD activities of higher education institutions, developing online learning for ESD, and training teachers and trainers on ESD;

Whereas the Asia-Pacific Forum for Environment and Development (APFED) and ECO ASIA (Environment Congress for Asia and the Pacific) have recognised the importance of networks of higher education institutions for integrating sustainability in higher education in response to the challenges resulting from rapid and uneven growth in the Asia-Pacific region;

Whereas there is a moral imperative for higher education institutions to be actively engaged in promoting, integrating and mainstreaming sustainability concepts and actions into teaching and research, hinging primarily on the notion that the satisfaction of present needs should not compromise the fulfillment of needs of future generations, which require explicit consideration in a holistic manner of the three pillars of sustainability, namely Economy, Environment and Society;

Whereas an effective way to address the issues of sustainability by higher education institutions is through strategic alliance by working together within the network and with other existing networks;
